O. C. PREST AND WIFE ARE GUESTS AT AVIATION LUNCHEON GIVEN AT THE WEBER CLUB

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Prest were entertained by the Ogden aviation committee at a luncheon at the Weber club today. Prest has been a flier for the past ten years. At the luncheon today Prest told of the great possibilities of Ogden as an air center and stated that he would return to this city next spring with his planes and carry passengers.

Prest met with an accident here a few days ago when the blade of his propeller broke causing a forced landing. Mrs. Earl Thomas was the passenger in the plane but was uninjured in the fall.

At the meeting today Chairman John S. Lewis, Roscoe R. Gwilliam, E. F. Piers, A. B. Foulger, W. E. Zuppman and Albert Warden were present, the ning. Various committees were appointed and a definite plan of work outlined.

Refreshments were served and the old folks took a spin at the plate, paying their forfeits when they missed the same as in their younger days. A brief program of appropriate readings was given by the class teacher and the spirit of good fellowship reigned supreme. One particular object of the class is to reach all the adult members of the church to interest them in a live class.

The evening was thoroughly enjoyed by all present, so much so that it was decided to hold a similar session on the fourth Monday evening of each month.

LOCAL BRITISHERS HOLD SECOND OF WINTER PARTIES

Last evening the local Britannic association held the second of a winter series of parties in the Eagles' hall. The affair proved to be a splendid one and at this time a number of new members were enrolled and others have made application for membership. Following a finely arranged program refreshments were served by Mrs. D. Taylor, Mrs. H. Johnson and Mrs. B. Eckersley. The program for the evening follows:

SHEEP MUST BE DIPPED BEFORE BEING ALLOWED TO ENTER ON FOREST RANGES OF THIS STATE

Requests for co-operation of the forestry service in the enforcement of Order No. 2, which requires that all sheep in the state be dipped to eliminate menace of ticks, have been made by the Utah Livestock board. This order is said to have the complete approval of Dr. Murray, inspector in charge of the bureau of animal industry at Salt Lake.

The board has been advised that the forestry service will co-operate in the enforcement of the order by stipulating that permits to enter on the forest ranges will require that all sheep be dipped. The board also desires co-operation of the forest service in the enforcement of proposed orders requiring the vaccination of cattle against blackleg and anthrax. This proposed rule is also approved by Dr. Murray. The board has been assured by forest officials, it is stated, that if they issue formal orders requiring vaccination, all permits would be required to comply with the order before turning stock on the forest ranges.

TOYLAND IS OPEN

Even a little trip to Toyland will be a source of delight to the kiddies—better than a circus. The entire Third Floor has been given over to the great toy display—and a special attraction is the nine large oil paintings from Toyland subjects that the children will be delighted to see. We strongly recommend the early selection of toys—they may be held here until you want them. The prices are absolutely as low today as they will be the night before Christmas, and of course the assortments are infinitely better. Why not select your toys while they are all fresh and new?

SWEET CIDER Christmas is Just Around the Corner

Don't come into the store until you want to get the Christmas spirit. Never before has the store presented a spectacle so inspiring. Like a great blanket of snow, the thousands of dainty handkerchiefs used in the decorations give the store the air of a white Christmas. And all departments are now fully ready to supply your Christmas wants—assortments are full and complete, and already the shopping is for things to give.

SWEET CIDER

On the Thanksgiving table, place a great glass jug of this delicious sweet apple cider that is on sale in the Basement Store. Made from the pure juice of prime Utah apples—filtered so that it is as clear as water. Of a beautiful amber color. You will enjoy it with the Thanksgiving dinner. In sanitary cans that contain about one gallon. In the Basement Store at 55c
